Students in this free program delve deeply into all aspects of dance, production, and arts administration, gaining valuable experience and exposure in New York City's performing arts arena. Fifteen to twenty participants, selected through application, meet weekly to study with faculty and staff at the Mark Morris Dance Center, choreographer Mark Morris, and Dance Group company members. The program culminates in a dance concert that is student-driven, created, and produced. Students will also have the option to continue their study through myriad opportunities with MMDG and beyond.

This free program is made possible with support from The Pierre and Tana Matisse Foundation
